

Brexit, deal or no deal ?

Will England remain in Europe at the end of 2019 ?

Brexit is the nickname for “British exit” from the EU. Brexit is the June 23rd 2016, in which referendum where the United Kingdom voted to leave the European Union. The residents decided that the benefits of belonging to the unified monetary body no longer outweighed the costs of free movement of immigration.

Everyone asks us “what will happen next” but the truth is that no one knows how things will turn out. Will the UK get a deal and a delay or will it get no extension and no deal ?

The main reasons for Brexit are economic. The EU has failed to address the economic problems that had been developing since 2008. They believed that remaining in the European Union would make Britain follow Europe’s lead. If the UK decided to stay in the EU the alternative would be economic disaster.

Will Theresa May get the deal that she wants ?

Theresa May, the prime minister of the UK, hopes that the UK can have Brexit with a deal. “ I sincerely hope that we can do that with a deal, I’m still working on ensuring that the parliament can agree on a deal so that we can leave in an orderly way.” When asked by one of our reporters “ what if it fails” she responded while trying to avoid the question “ What matters is that we recognize that Brexit is the decision of the British people. We’re nearly three years on from the original vote” (Guardian, 2019).

Brexit from Donald Trump’s point of view

Donald Trump has renewed his criticism of Theresa May’s handling of Brexit, claiming that she ignored his advice on how to negotiate and now “ it’s tearing the country apart. She didn’t listen to that and that’s fine. I think it could have been negotiated in a different manner, I hate to see everything being ripped apart now.” He says that “a second vote would be unfair to the people that won”.

European Union
UK

The UK is facing trading problems with Europe. The UK is currently part of the single-market, which means that tariff and non-tariff barriers are eliminated on the trade in goods and services between the UK and other EU countries.

Meeting between Theresa May and Donald Trump in Washington.

A demonstration took place in the heart of London on Sunday 24th of March 2019. Thousands of people gathered for a march to support a further referendum on the UK’s relationship with the European Union. Protesters filled the streets from Park Lane to Parliament Square. On Thursday, European leaders agreed to delay the UK’s departure from the EU.